Grant Wood Area Education Agency is one of nine Iowa area education agencies (AEAs) established by the Iowa Legislature in 1975 to provide equity in educational programs across the state.

Iowa's AEAs work as educational partners with local public and accredited private schools to help assure that all children reach their potential. Iowa AEAs are widely regarded as one of the foremost regional service systems in the country, offering programs equitably, efficiently, and economically on a regional or cooperative basis among school districts.

AEAs provide access to resources for both large and small school districts. Services are provided in the following areas:

Special Education Support

Providing specialized services for children and students birth to age 21 with diverse learning needs, including students with disabilities.

Instructional Media

Providing instructional videos, books, and kits to support K-12 classroom instruction and teacher training. Printing, graphics, and Teacher Work Center services are also available.

School Technology

Providing assistance with technology planning and integration, training, cooperative purchasing, networking, printing, and distance learning.

Instructional Services

Offering support and expertise on best practices in skill areas for children birth to age 5 and in content areas for K-12 teachers.

Professional Development

Coordinating workshops, courses, materials, and ongoing consultation for area educators and support staff.

Leadership

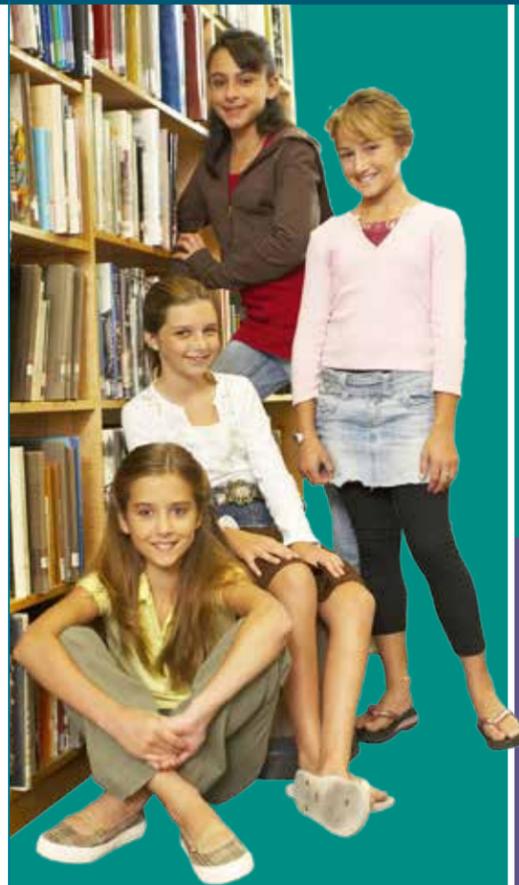

Providing leadership services that assist with the recruitment, induction, retention, and professional development of educational leaders.

School-Community Planning

Providing support for School Improvement processes and communication with families and communities.

Multicultural, Gender-Fair

Providing services that assist schools and school districts to ensure supportive learning environments for all students.

Here are just a few of the key roles the agency plays in the communities it serves:

- The AEA identifies the needs of children with disabilities and provides for or supplements a wide variety of services to meet those needs.
- The AEA supports schools in the use of the Iowa Professional Development Model. It also offers professional skill-enhancements to teachers and administrators, including credit courses for licensure renewal as well as certification classes for paraeducators.
- The AEA supports district personnel in curriculum and assessments, which address, at a minimum, literacy, mathematics, and science. Support is also available for establishing and analyzing student achievement and learning climate data, and for using this information to improve student learning.
- The agency provides staff with specialized skills that many schools could not afford to have on their own. This includes school psychologists, social workers, speech-language pathologists, and curriculum consultants, just to name a few.

- School districts benefit from shared resources such as DVDs, supplemental materials, educationally designed databases and search engines for school libraries, and science kits for classroom experiments.
- The AEAs engage in economical group purchasing of food, paper, office and janitorial supplies, and many other items, saving millions of dollars statewide.
- Schools also benefit from high quality, Internet-based licensed databases and multimedia resources provided by the agency. These products provide 24/7 access to information that teachers and students can use at school and at home.

Services in Area 10

Grant Wood AEA provides support to more than 70,000 students and approximately 5,800 teachers, administrators, media specialists, nurses, and paraeducators in 32 public school districts, 17 state accredited non-public schools and 7 independent accredited non-public schools, preschools and daycare centers. The Grant Wood AEA service area, includes Benton, Cedar, Iowa, Johnson, Jones, Linn, and Washington counties in east central Iowa.

Staff services and materials from the agency are available without charge, except for services such as printing, data-processing, special events with outside speakers, or individualized requests.

The agency operates three centers, two in Cedar Rapids and one in Coralville. However, nearly 60 percent of agency staff is assigned to specific schools as part of a regional team. They work directly with children and educators as an integral part of the local school staff. Others serve schools in a consultant or itinerant basis, offer courses or workshops, or link schools with other persons, agencies or materials that meet their needs.

Approximately 80,000 Iowa students age birth to 21 have been identified as having some type of disability. This means about one in eight students in K-12 classrooms need some form of special assistance. Virtually all students with disabilities receive support services from the AEAs.

The ultimate goal of our work is that every child will receive a quality education.

As educational partners, Grant Wood AEA helps students, local district staff, families, and communities meet the growing challenge of accountability and student achievement.

Board of Directors

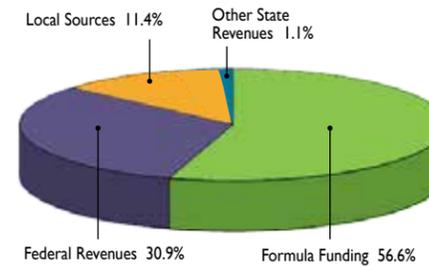

A nine-member board of directors elected by area school boards governs Grant Wood AEA. Board members represent designated segments of the agency's service area called director districts. They are elected for four-year rotating terms by the school district board members in their director districts.

The Grant Wood AEA Board of Director meetings are normally held on the third Wednesday of each month at 5:30 p.m. in the Grant Wood Room of the Sixth St. Facility in Cedar Rapids.

Funding

Unlike local school districts, the AEA system has no taxing authority. The agency is funded by a per-pupil assessment designated by the Legislature, by federal funds, various grants, and sale of services. Grant Wood AEA invests approximately 75 percent of its funding in serving children with disabilities. The remainder of the agency's budget provides a variety of educational and media/technology services to schools and communities.
